Where in the world can you find the best people?

Talent acquisition is becoming more international than you may realize. Companies are searching globally to discover individuals who can help them succeed in today's challenging economic climate.

It's widely recognized that a well-trained, highly productive talent pool exists within American borders and beyond. When you utilize global resources, the benefits can be significant.

Easy, one-stop solutions.

The world's largest companies have the financial resources and infrastructure in place to build and manage their own remote teams. This gives top firms an enormous advantage.

What's in a name?

While the scientific term "volt" refers to electric potential, the company Volt is all about business potential. For us, "volt" stands for energy, action and success. We provide business solutions that can help small and mid-sized companies grow to their full potential.

Over the years, we've helped many small companies become big companies. Turning a small business into a big business is something we know a lot about. After all, in 1951, our company started with just two individuals, William and Jerome Shaw.

William and Jerome Shaw

These forward-thinking brothers founded the business by writing technical manuals. The decision to name the company "Volt" was made in their mother's kitchen in Brooklyn, New York.

Today, Volt Information Sciences is a Fortune 1000 company with over 36,000 employees and 300 offices worldwide. Visit volt.com to learn more about us.
